Action At Last

Although no one can lay his finger on the exact causes of the Depression and current plight of the nation, yet the major factors are easily well known. The element of mystery enters when we realize that nothing has been done about any of these major factors to date.

First of all, the aftermath of the World War led the world into depression. The economic effects of the war have been repeatedly discussed in these columns. You simply cannot take thousands of dollars of cash money from every country and city in America and pass it across the ocean to other countries and never get back the principal much less appreciable interest—without dire consequences. The adjustment of the war debts is of necessity one of the first things that must be done before the ship of state is rightened . . . and to date the debts haven't been adjusted. They must not be cancelled.

Second, following the war and in the wake of the speculative spirit engendered by war time profits and sudden creation of a "newly-rich" class, vast sums of American money were invested in worthless foreign bonds. Only recently a New York banker confessed that he passed on to his boys customers millions of dollars in South American bonds, knowing at the time they were no good—but on which he and his colleagues could realize hundreds of thousands of profit. Small banks and the public were preyed on by selfish, ruthless capitolists and the pockets of Uncle Sam were once more drained. The money that American industry needed could have right—was passed over the counter for worthless foreign bonds. Big capitol betrayed American industry.

When honest and sound American industry couldn't get the capitolists to loan them a Indian Head penny, the selfsame Judas' holding the millions coaxed worthless loans of millions to cardsm hatchaked midget countries and pocketed the commissions. It was a crime, a betrayal, and many of those who joined in it ranked high in name.

Third, with immense obligations coming due—as veteran relief, war-savings stamps and war bonds etc., the federal treasury had to float loan after loan of tax-free bonds. Capitol rushed in and fought to invest—because they were tax-free. Nearly a billion dollars a year has to be bled from humble tax-payers to pay interest to the millionaires who own government tax-free bonds. And the millionaires grew richer and the people poorer. Thus less than 10% of the people own more than 90% of the money in the nation. It was and is an unjust state of affairs and must be remedied before a redistribution of wealth is possible.

Fourth, these major factors mentioned above removed the wherewithal to operate business in America. The farmer's markets were closed and wheat, tobacco and cotton dropped to new lows. The farmer went broke and mortgaged away his title. Industries, mills, factories—all had to cut salaries and lay off men—creating the sequel to the A. E. F.—the Army of the Unemployed. Cringing in its wake came suffering, hunger, distress and pending starvation.

That's the history of the depression. It engulfed the nation and hung like a shadow of gloom to crimp ambition, enterprise and progress. Life became a frantic struggle for existence. To hold one's own became an ideal. Real Americanism was slapped in the seat of the pants.

What was done about it? Well, the powers that be scrambled to do one thing—they fell over themselves in their eagerness to secure and protect the same capitolists that had sold America short. The big banks, the big corporations, the millionaires—they must be protected and continued prosperous—and maybe some of that protected prosperity would trinkle down to the people. For two years virtually all anti-depression legislation has been aimed to help the less than 10% who are already wallowing in over 90% of the nation's cash.

AND NOW A NEW DEAL

Last fall a prophet and a great leader went up and down the land preaching a new day. Jeffersonian Democracy was his text and opportunity for all his subject.

Saturday that leader became the thirty-second president of the United States. When Franklin Delano Roosevelt took the oath of office the memory of Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt awoke. Hope was reborn and like magic a cry of "ACTION" swept the nation.

And action came. Mincing no words and wasting no time, the new pilot mounted the captain's seat and steered the craft of American Destiny out into the open sea of progress. His inauguration address was a combination of the idealism of Wilson and the dynamic force of "Teedy" Roosevelt. It gripped the nation.

This week banks in America are closed. Why? Because American banks are insolvent? Because our deposits are unsafe in our banks? Don't be foolish. You bet your life American banks are good, trustworthy and sound. Your money is a darn sight safer in them than tucked under your pillow. And will be a week, a month, a year or century from now. Don't' kid yourself about that.

Why are they closed this week, then?

Simply, because Franklin Delano Roosevelt substituted ACTION for DRIFTING and initiated the NEW DEAL at once instead of waiting a month or a year. That's the kind of president we've got. That's the leadership he brings.

Armed with war-time powers—he will FORCE LOOSE the hoarded and frozen currency of the nation and not one day's chance were the millionaires given to drain out the cash they had in banks to invest in more tax-free bonds, tuck into their safety-deposit boxes, or what have you!

It has and does inconvenience us all—but the bank holiday means the real corner has been turned and finally we have a national leadership that is going to strike out at the three major causes of the depression mentioned above. Here's the comparison. We've had the sort of leadership that when a house catches afire, starts running to collect the fire insurance. Now we've got the sort that grabs a fire hose, puts out the blaze and saves the helpless.

Our banks, everyone of them, will reopen tomorrow or in a few days. Deposits may be guaranteed. Withdrawals perhaps will be limited. Then Congress, in special session, will pass the necessary laws for the NEW DEAL that Roosevelt will ask and the nation will set in to do a job that should have been done two years ago—rebuild prosperity from the bottom up.

Sitting here at our editorial desk, with only a few nickels in cash in our pockets, WE ARE NEVERTHELESS LOOKING UP. We recall a song played over and over at the Democratic convention that ran . . . . "HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN". It was the song of a new day. Let's get it out again.

Thank God Zangara's bullet missed. God spared to America a trusted friend, a noble leader, a brilliant statesman, a MAN OF ACTION. Here's our slogan and we plead with you all to adopt it—"Business As Usual While Roosevelt ACTS."

AN ERA ENDS

When Herbert Hoover relinquished the reins of administration, an era in America ended.

The period of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover was an epoch of conservatism and slow readjustment. When the pulses of war bustle had been spent, nothing was done to replace them. When pockets got empty, spirit was crushed. The leadership was that of watchful waiting, with an occasional slab at curbing the tide.

A new era now starts in American history, 1776—1832—1861-1886—1902—1917—1932.

The new era will be marked by action, progress and hange. Let's live up to the challenge of the hour.

YOUR CREDIT

With most of us short of actual cash this week, the necessity for a certain amount of credit is unavoidable. That credit is being cheerfully and kindly extended wherever possible. But, we beg that our readers will not abuse that credit. It is easy his week to say, "I can't get hold of my money, you'll have to charge it." But how about when the time comes when you can get hold of some money—foresee your ability to pay and keep within that amount. It isn't unfair to the merchants and business men who are big-hearted enough to befriend you now.

WILL YOU WITHDRAW IF YOU CAN?

If I had all the foodstuff available in Appomattox county in my possession and locked it up and wouldn't sell it unless I got any— on would mob me and force my selfish hoardings away. And you would be right.

The same logic applies to those who are saying: "Just as soon as bank reopen, I am going to GET MINE and keep it." If we all keep our hands and act normally, no one will suffer and times will be 106% better in a very few months. The man who tries to withdraw all his money as soon as banks reopen is no selfish and narrow to live in 1933 and if because human nature is stronger than heart the government realizes that people want to be strong enough to resist this temptation and therefore, will have to limit withdrawals—there will be absolutely nothing to be alarmed over and common sense will tell us that a wise course has been taken.

HERE'S AN IDEA

One of the best things to help right now is to take the afternoon off and go to a show . . . play checkers . . . whittle . . . get up a bridge game or sit down with a jigsaw puzzle. In other words, . . . diversion. Things will be as right as rain in a week.

Happiness is not money. In your heart and mind you can be happy or downcast. So smile—cheer up—forget your troubles and go to a good show.

Cheer Up! It's Springtime In Old Virginia, Pass Up The Blues

Richmond, March 7.—"It is springtime in Virginia, come spend your script in the Old Dominion", is the slogan with which Colonel LeRoy Hodges greeted a conference of State Chamber of Commerce leaders in Richmond this morning, called to work out plans for placing the facilities of the State Chamber at the disposal of the Governor for any service he may request, and to assist the local organizations throughout the state in meeting the emergency.

"There is more real joy in living today," Colonel Hodges said, "than one has felt for the past few years, for at last the dark, nerve-racking days of waiting for the signal to 'Let's Go' are behind us, and America once again is in red-blooded, body-tingling, and mental-stimulating positive action."

"We reached and passed our zero hour of national depression at noon Saturday," he said, "and the big drive of American business upward and to better times is under way at last all along the line."

Continuing, Colonel Hodges said:

"America is sound, and at no time in her history has Virginia been on a firmer basis. Virginia's fields are just as fertile as ever before, her waters contain the same abundance of seafood, her mineral resources have hardly been touched, and her forests are still a vast reservoir of potential wealth. Virginia is bound closer together today than ever before by modern means of transportation, and animated by an All-Virginia spirit and determination to work together for the good of the State and Nation. She is ably led by a wise and courageous Governor in whom the people of the Old Dominion have faith. Our State credit is unimpaired by debt and at the top of the American list. Our banks, too, are sound and water-proof, and with the proper support of their depositors and the confidence of our people as a whole they will help lead the way back to sounder business.

"The tragic era of American business is ending and we are off to a good start on a new deal for all our people. The blindness of greed is the key to unequal prosperity in the fields of unsound speculation, industrial and corporate selfishness, and governmental corruption has given way to clear vision that the old laws of economics still govern in simple majesty in spite of the insolence of the wealth-mad leadership under which America has swirled in confusion during the past decade.

"A conception of the need for hard work, an appreciation of real values, and a genuine respect for one's neighbors have finally displaced the silly illusion of a 'good time', aimless spending in 'going places and doing things', and the conception of life as an opportunity to 'get something for nothing'.

"The feet of America are once again on the earth, and a new leader is ready to guide them along safer and happier paths. The success of the new leadership, however, imposes a disciplined obedience, sound thinking, calm judgement, temperate talking, and forceful action, in support of the administration and of the Constitution. America is challenged to prove her boast of fitness for world leadership by setting our own camp in shape, by purging our forces at home of the insidious mercenaries of selfishness and corruption, and by occupying our proper sector on the international front with a sound economic program and an adequate plan of national preparedness.

"Virginians, as they always have done, will respond as a body in this emergency at the call of the President and of the Governor to the defense of our national and state institutions in the big drive for American prosperity that has at last gotten under way. Let's Go!"

The dwelling just outside of Appomattox, occupied by Curtis Ferguson and owned by Senator S. L. Ferguson, burned early Monday morning. The building was a complete loss and very little was saved in the way of personal possessions.

Warning

Don't be misled by false statements. Calomel, salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills and drugs have no effect whatever on the liver or its production of bile. The truth of this statement can be proved by consulting the authoritive medical textbooks published during the past five years.

There are only two known substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing the production of bile. Carter's Little Pills contain both of these substances, and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them.—(Adv.)
